"The Special leave petition is dismissed both on the ground of delay as also on merit".

The High Court vide impugned order had held that assessee not a party to the fraud as had purchased DEPB Scrip from open market in bona fide belief of its being genuine, on payment of full price and availed benefit thereunder. Merely because at a later stage, the DEPB has been found to be obtained fraudulently by forging Bank Certificate of Export Realisation, the assessee could not be deprived of the benefits legitimately available to them.

The High Court further held that, Revenue cannot avail the extended period of limitation to issue SCN because assessee could not be accused of mis-representation, collusion or suppression of facts under Section 28 of Customs Act, 1962.
